Employment Equity

The Visual Arts Centre is aligned with the principles of Employment Equity.

Employment Equity aims to correct systemic barriers to employment and promote the accommodation of designated groups in the workforce.

Employment Equity encourages the establishment of working conditions that are free of barriers, corrects the conditions of disadvantage in employment and promotes the principle that Employment Equity requires special measures and the accommodation of differences for the four designated groups in Canada. The four designated groups include: women, aboriginal peoples, persons with disabilities and members of visible minorities, with the addition of a fifth group, members of the LGBTQ2+ community. For more information on Employment Equity, please consult Employment and Social Development Canada (<https://www.canada.ca/en/employment-social-development/programs/employment-equity.html>), or contact us by email at info@visualartscentre.ca

We encourage applicants who consider themselves members of an aforementioned designated group to self-identify in their application.
